A CAREER FOR YOU

L. P. N. INSTRUCTOR
Corallene McKean, R. N.

Instructing in the School of Practical Nursing is interesting, challenging and very satisfying.

Assisting the students to grow in their nursing skills and knowledge, so that they may become an integral part of the nursing team, is a great responsibility. The role of the practical nurse is continually changing, and the Instructor finds it a challenge to help the student prepare for these changes.

The job satisfaction takes place on graduation night when our "finished product" marches across the platform into one of the many opportunities that are waiting for her.

Dear Miss Morrell:

Thank you all very much for the nice invitation to your senior luncheon last Friday. I enjoyed the lunch and the association very much. Your group is to be commended for the food preparation and the other details which went into making it such a success.

Very best wishes to each of you. I shall look forward to seeing you some time in the future.

Sincerely yours,

'Twas the PM before the crisis When all thru the hospital not a Hyper thyroid was stirring not even an anoxia.
The scultetus were hung by the hopper with care in hopes that the internes wouldn't look there.
The patients were nestled all snug in their hi-lows while visions of oral feedings danc'd thru their medullas while the aides in her grey and I in my blue check had just se'iled on our gluteous maximus (we thought what the heck) when out on the maternity entrance there arose such an eructation I sprang from my commode to see what in tarnation.
Away to central supply
I flew in a flash
Tore open't the autoclave and threw up the sash
The celestial body on the breast of the new fallen frozen vapor gave the lustre of Gram positive to objects on paper when what to my wandering retina should appear--
but a huge cadillac
with eighteen cylinders with an oily old homosapien who seemed liveley and quick I surdized in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than coursers the practicals came as he whistled and shouted and called them by name now Swenson, now Nelson now Hanni, now Horner
On Richards, on Richer
On Perkins, on Warner.
To the top of the 8th floor
th the top of the hall now dash away, dash away dash away all.

as trembling students before the wild surgeons fly
when they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky.
So up to the 8th floor, the practicals with the R.N.s behing them and the instructors too.
And then, in a twinkling
I heard on the division the prancing and pawing of each little excision as I drew in my pancreas and was turning around down the dumb waiter St. Nick came with a bound.
He was dressed all in red from his cranium to his os calcis and his clothes were all t'rnished with nutrients and bacilli a bundle of toys he had flung on his thoracic vertebrae and he looked like a house Dr.
Just opening his pack,
His veins how they vibrated his arteries how neery his blood pressure dancing his temperature varied, his droll little mouth was drawn up with a suture and the beard on his mandible was black as our future.
The stump of his pipe
he held tight in his bicuspid and the carbon-di-oxide, it encircled his skull like an ace bandage.
He had a broad lacrimal and a little round fundus that shook when he laughed like a bowl full of protoplasm He was micro and obese and appeared a jolly ^{senior} citizen and I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself with a wink of his orbi't and a twist of his sternoclydomastoid soon gave me to know I had nothing to avoid he spoke not a word

but went straight to his work and filled the syringes then turned with a jerk; and lying a phalange aside of his vomer and giving a nod said "girls I'm a roamer" so he leaped into his cadillac, to the aides gave a whistle and away they all flew with tachycardiac conditions and I heard him exclaim ere he drove out of sight
"Merry Xmas to all and be sure and chart right."
