RICHARD S. PROWS PRESENTATION

The first recipient of Utah Tech's Distinguished Service Award tonight is Richard S. Prows.

A long-time friend and advocate of vocational-technical education, he is president of Prowswood, Inc., developers of homes, condominiums and apartments.

He also is a member of the board of trustees of BICEP, a Salt Lake City business-education-community partnership, and a director of the American Equity Corp. In addition, Mr. Prows is organizer and a member of the board of Utah Bank and Trust in Salt Lake City. He also is a president of the Salt Lake Area Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Salt Lake, he served as a member of the Utah Technical College Advisory Council, and is a past chairman of the Utah State Advisory Council for Vocational and Technical Education.

It's with great pride that we present to Richard S. Prows this Distinguished Service Award for energetic involvement in vocational-technical education.

MARVIN L. HENDRICKSON PRESENTATION

An outstanding alumnus always wells up pride in an institution, and in those who were that person's teachers. Such is the case with Marvin L. Hendrickson, one of the two recipients of this year's Outstanding Alumni Awards.

Marv took the Building Construction course at Utah Tech almost 20 years ago, but quit one month short of graduation to go to work. He has since built an enviable career.

He is now vice president of Bangerter-Hendrickson Enterprises, Inc., developers of homes and real estate. He is the 1975 past president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Salt Lake and a national director of the Home Builders Association. He also is a member of the Salt Lake County Construction Board of Appeals and the Building Construction Advisory Committee of Utah Tech.

A participant in youth programs, Marv demonstrates what one can do with a skilled trade and personal desire.

For his personal achievements and community service, it's our pleasure to present this Outstanding Alumni Award for 1977 to Marvin L. Hendrickson.
